WOODS SPEEDS OVER COURSE
AT 81 M.P.H.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Douglas, Isle of Man.

Yesterday.

Lapping, the hazardous Manx course at a speed of over 80 miles per hour, Stanley Woods, the veteran Norton rider, yesterday won the Senior Tourist Trophy motorcycle race, the Blue Ribband of road racing, in record time of 3 hours, 15 minutes, 35 seconds. This represents an average speed of 81.04 m.p.h. for the 264 miles course.

Jimmy Simpson, also on a Norton secured second place at an average speed of 80.41 m.p.h. crossing the line 1 minute, 32 seconds behind the winner.

Percy Hunt, another of the Norton team took third place at an average speed of 80.16 m.p.h., 26 seconds behind Simpson. A Norton machine ridden by James Guthrie came fourth.

By winning the event Woods has established a record that is likely to stand for many years. For two years in succession he has won both the Senior and Junior trophies in the same year, and has set a new lap record of 82.7 m.p.h.

Fifty thousand spectators watched the event, the greater part of the watchers taking up vantage posts at an early hour on the hair-pin bends and on Crail-na-ba the longest straight stretch of road on the mountain course, terminating in a right-angle bend. Down this long hill, the machines reached speeds of over 110 m.p.h.

BRITAIN LEADS IN DAVIS CUP.

Fred Perry Wins In Straight Sets.

London, Yesterday.

Great Britain have won their first match against Czechoslovakia in the Semi Final Round of the European Zone of the Davis Cup.

At Eastbourne to-day Fred Perry beat Menzel by 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Bunny Austin is expected to beat Siba in the other singles match on the opening day.

Favoured to reach the Final Round Britain will probably meet either Japan or Australia for the right to play America in the Inter-Zone Final. The winners will meet France in the Challenge Round in Paris. Britain beat Italy by 4 matches to 1 to enter Semi-Final, while Czechoslovakia registered a clean sweep triumph over Greece.—Reuter.

ECONOMIC DELEGATES ENTERTAINED

Social Side Of World Conference.

A TEMPORARY CURRENCY
STABILISATION.

London, Yesterday.

The social side of the World Economic Conference was dominant to-day delegates anticipating a restful week-end.

It is doubtful whether the currency negotiations, which have succeeded war debts as the dominant issue, will be continued to-day.

It is learned in the most reliable circles that any stabilisation that may be reached will be of a purely temporary character, preliminary to any permanent stabilisation which necessarily depends on economic laws.

No announcement regarding the matter is expected before Tuesday.

H.M. the King gives a garden party this afternoon at Windsor Castle, for the delegates, experts and their wives.

The Premier, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is entertaining the leaders of the American delegation, and their wives to luncheon at The Chequers.—Reuter.

Two Monetary Committees.

BASLE BANK PRESIDENT TO CO-OPERATE.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

London, Yesterday.

The Monetary Committee of the World Economic Conference have decided to establish two sub-committees of which one will deal with the necessary immediate measures, and the other with permanent measures for the re-establishment of an international monetary standard.

The former sub-committee's investigations are concerned with the credit policy, price levels, limitation of currency, fluctuations of exchange, exchange control, problems of indebtedness and the resumption of lending.

The other sub-committee will consider the functions of central banks, co-ordination of their policies, monetary reserves and silver.

Governor J. Cox (United States) welcomed the unanimous agreement reached, as a happy augury for the success of the Conference.

On the suggestion of Dr. Klenbock (Austria) and Governor Cox, the Committee decided to invite Mr. Leon Fraser, President of the Bank of International Settlements, and representatives of the Financial Committee of the League of Nations, to co-operate with the Committee.

Washington.

Expressing "unalterable opposition" to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Prohibition Administrator Dairymple told the House ways and means committee to-day nevertheless he believed legalization of naturally-fermented wines would increase popular respect for the prohibition law and at the same time bring needed revenue into the treasury.

The committee opened a hearing to-day on the Lea bill to legalize naturally-fermented wines.

CONCESSIONS BY GERMANY'S CREDITORS

Standstill Agreement Modified.

REDUCTION IN INTEREST RECOMMENDED.

London, Yesterday.

At the meeting of representatives of the Reichsbank and the Consultative Committee of creditor banks and the German delegates, held in London yesterday, it was decided to modify the 1933 Standstill Agreement so that repayments of capital by the Deutsche Gold Diskont Bank, amounting to 75,000,000 marks, are postponed until February 28, next year.

As the request of Dr. Schacht, Consultative Committee will ask President of the Reichsbank, the Consultative Committee will ask the creditor committees to recommend a reduction of the present rates of interest.

The negotiations in London, between Germany and her "Standstill" creditors began on Friday.

Certain concessions regarding interest rates are said to have been accorded to German debtors.

Under the concession, the average rate, commission included, would be reduced from about 4½ per cent. to 4 per cent.

Creditors would also renounce, provisionally, their right to the repayment of the principal due under the Standstill Agreement.

A general moratorium was declared on June 8 on all credits given to Germany before July, 1931.

Dr. Schacht, the President of the Reichsbank, who made the announcement declared that July, 1931, had been fixed because Germany's present financial position was caused by the bank crisis of that date.

GENEVA EDITOR ON CANTON VISIT.

Impressed By Modern Development Of City.

Canton, Yesterday.

Mr. William Martin, editor of the Journal de Geneve, has arrived here on a pleasure trip. He is personally acquainted with high Chinese officials here.

This internationally-known journalist to-day went round the city on a sight-seeing trip and was favourably impressed by the modern development and construction of the city. Members of the Fourth Estate here are planning a big welcome to Mr. Martin, who will be asked to make a public address.

While in Hankow, Mr. William Martin expressed in a speech the belief that any "truce" signed by Nanking with Japan would be tantamount to admitting Japanese overlordship in Manchuria, and Jehol, and would undermine the League of Nations stand with regard to the Sino-Japanese dispute.—Central Press.

APATHETIC ATTITUDE

"AMERICA
SHRUGS HER SHOULDERS"

Negotiations Doomed
To Failure?

CONGRESS WILL NOT SANCTION
BIG REDUCTION.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Washington,
Yesterday.

America has received the news of the European war debt defaults with a shrug of the shoulders, indicating a complete indifference to the possibility of eventual repudiation.

Complete apathy marks the attitude of the evening newspapers, which soberly record the fact that the United States has received only 8 per cent. of the war debt instalments that became due on June 15.

It is believed in some quarters that the debt negotiations in Washington are doomed to failure, as there is not the least hope that the United States Congress will sanction anything like a 90 per cent. reduction in debts, after the pattern of the Lausanne Reparations Agreement.

It is felt that the result of this failure will be, that debtor nations, already hardened by defaults, would frankly repudiate their obligations.

ONE NATION PAID IN FULL

The present standing regarding the June instalment of the war debt to the United States, is shown as under. Finland is, so far, the only country that has paid her obligation in full.

Great Britain, paid 10 per cent. $510,000,000.
Czechoslovakia, token payment, $180,000.
Italy, token payment, $1,000,000.
Rumania, token payment, uncertain.
Finland, paid in full, $5148,592.

South Africa's Gold Mines To Yield Increased Revenues

The new Coalition Government of South Africa proposes by taxation to take an additional $5,000,000 a year from the gold mines.

This announcement was made by Mr. H. C. Havenga, Minister of Finance, in introducing his Budget in the House of Assembly.

The Minister pointed out that this represents roughly one-third of the extra profits accruing as the result of South Africa abandoning the gold standard.

There would also be additional income taxes and other benefits to the state.

GANDHI'S GRAVE CONDITION

Month's Complete Rest Ordered.

SUSPENSION OF CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE.

Poona, Yesterday.

The condition of Mahatma Gandhi, who ended his 2½-day fast to further the cause for the "Untouchables," on May 29, is now causing grave concern among those who are nursing him back to health.

The board of six doctors who are attending the Mahatma declare that they are not satisfied with his progress. His weight does not increase and he has a tendency to increased blood-pressure. A complete mental and physical rest for a further period of four weeks has been recommended.

During his fast, Gandhi was released from Yeravda gaol, and although his strength was ebbing rapidly during the last few days of his ordeal, he completed the period.

The six-weeks' suspension of the Civil Disobedience campaign dating from May 8, the day the Mahatma began his fast, has now been extended to July 31.—Reuter.

RETALIATION FOR COTTON DISCRIMINATION.

Bombay, Yesterday.

As a retaliation against the Japanese boycott of Indian raw cotton, it is understood that an influential section of the Bombay Brokers' Association is considering a boycott of Japanese members.

The Association's President has appealed to British spinners to make larger use of Indian raw cotton.—Reuter.

The move is the answer to the action of the Japanese cotton traders who on June 10 decided to support the Japanese spinners in the boycott against India. Cotton mills in China and Manchukuo joined in the boycott which was instituted against the increased duty on Japanese cotton goods in India.

LIMITING WHEAT PRODUCTION

Tax Levied By U.S.
Government.

A 20 PER CENT REDUCTION IN ACREAGE

Washington, Yesterday.

A maximum processing tax on wheat amounting to about 30 cents is to be levied in the United States.

Mr. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, announced the tax yesterday, and stated that it had been imposed in order to finance the programme for the reduction of wheat acreage and to provide benefits totalling $150,000,000 which are to be paid to farmers during this year.

The wheat programme will cover three years, pending the outcome of the Wheat Conference in London which is contemporary with the World Economic Conference.

It is understood that the percentage of reduction in wheat acreage does not exceed 20 per cent. It is also understood that the processing tax will operate after August 8.—Reuter.

AMERICA'S $50,000,000 LOAN TO CHINA

For Constructive Affairs.

COMMISSION TO TAKE CHARGE OF FUND.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, informed Reuter to-day that in accordance with the understanding reached between Mr. T. V. Soong and the United States Authorities at Washington, the new American wheat and cotton loan could be used for constructive affairs in China and a commission will be formed shortly to take charge of the disposal of the fund.

With regard to the Chiang Kai-shek question, Mr. Sun Fo said that the problem is bearing a settlement through amicable means.

As to the situation in the Southwest, Mr. Sun Fo stated that the question is very complicated and difficult of solution, and its early settlement is very unlikely.—Reuter.

Loan Condemned In Canton.

OPPOSITION VOICED TO CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

Canton, Yesterday.

Members of the Southwest Political Council are in daily conference concerning the truce concluded at Tangku on May 31, and the $50,000,000 wheat and cotton loan secured by Mr. T. V. Soong in the United States. They are unanimous in condemning these two measures, which are held injurious to the best interest of the country.

Realizing the strong opposition to these two agreements, General Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the Nanking Military Commission, has sent General Huang Shao-hsing, Minister of Interior, to Hong Kong and Canton to ally the strong criticisms against Chiang. Huang is expected here to-morrow.

"General Huang will get the cold shoulder," declared Mr. Chow Tsu, an important leader of the Southwest. "We would accord him the same welcome as we would to Chiang Kai-shek himself."

BROAD SHOULDER VOGUE

Square Double-Tiered Epaulettes Used.

NOVEL shoulder treatment in a coat results from the use of square double-tiered epaulettes.

They lie flat on the shoulder, one tier being of self material and one of white pique.

The back view is especially square and military looking. Navy blue corded wool is worked in contrasting directions. White pique furnishes the trimming detail.

The "tray" shoulder is receiving considerable acclaim. It curves across the chest, giving the impression of a long oval tray setting on top of the shoulders.

As for lingerie, not only white pique or white organdie, but also string coloured fabrics like canvas or linen or used. Small scarfs and bows are more frequent than collars.

Olive Oil For The Hair

Preserves Natural Life And Sheen.

FOR preserving the natural life and sheen of the hair a hot oil treatment is most effective.
Heat pure olive oil. Then rub it thoroughly into the hair and scalp before retiring. Leave it on all night, and in the morning wash the hair with castile soap or some good shampoo. This treatment, applied once every two weeks, will pay good dividends in hair health and beauty.

Lovely hair that frames the face or that forms a smooth glossy cap is always in the mode.
Keeping the scalp in good health is paramount. A massage which will loosen the scalp and thus stimulate circulation is achieved by placing the finger-tips naturally upon the head and rubbing each finger-tip gently around in a circle.
Rub in such a way that the main pressure is directed toward the crown of the head.

Use it in salads — it adds piquancy.

Latest Trend In Lingerie

Clever Slips For Evening
Wear

Chiffon Substitutes

EVENING gowns are no longer made up on a lining in the old way, but slip on over the head on to special silken slips. These are actual foundations to evening gowns, and cleverly made on the bins by one of the big Paris designers, who points and seams them in such a way that they cling to the figure and yet give with every movement of the body.

The same type of slips are used for day-wear in shorter lengths under lingerie frocks and those of lighter fabrics. These are in the same tone as a dress and worn over camiknicker and cami-skirts of chiffon, light satin, or printed chiffons.

Printed Chiffon.

The former models look very dainty as summer lingerie in printed chiffon, with the floral pattern cut out to form a border line round de-collete and armholes. Lace is used for the more or less tailored type of cami-skirt and knickers of chiffon and satin.

Bias lines are preferred for skirts of nightgowns in identical printed chiffons, with trimmings showing short Empire bodice tops with flat crossover sash effects. Finely knit-ed frills bordered with very narrow Valenciennes lace also look attractive on these crossover bodices and round the high waistline to disguise the joining.

Bias Skirt Lines.

One of the latest lingerie notes is completing these printed chiffon garments by the addition of a dressing gown showing the same trimming. Light crepe-de-chine linings give them the right sort of summer weight and substance.

Bias skirt lines are sleek in printed chiffons, but other models are gathered and joined to baby bodices by a wide slotting threaded through with ribbon. These nighties are charming and youthful in small patterned floral prints of blue or pink on white grounds. Baby puff sleeves usually conform.

A Paris couturiere famous for dainty lingerie models has made one of these nighties with a trimming of honeycomb smocking instead of a slotting to carry ribbon round the high-waisted line. This trimming is repeated at the rounded decollete and base of the little puff sleeves.

Sheer Linen and Muslin.

A chiffon model suggests the chemisier made on a long old-fashioned nightshirt line with wide armholes, long straight sleeves, and a high neckline with a narrow band for a collar. Wide pleats set in folds down the centre back from a short double yoke are typical, as well as short front openings of the ordinary shirt blouse order.

Printed sheer linens and Swiss muslins make excellent substitutes for chiffons, and on the whole wear much longer. This sheer linen also looks dainty in all the pastel shades, and though colours may wash away one is informed that the nighties can be redipped in identical colours.

SUMMER FASHION IN MILLINERY

High And Shallow Crowns Included.

NEW DRESS COLOURS.

AMONG the milliners showing summer fashion is Esther Meyer, who treats crowns and brims in many ways. She makes very high crowns and also shallow crowns, preferably the latter. Her brims are wide in front and drawn down over the eyes, or cut quite short in front to show the forehead. The big picture hat is also made for the summer. Picot and split straws are largely used, and so are cotton materials and crepe satin, the cottons being figured with stripes and checks, with scarves to match. Very small bright wings, crowns of soft flat plumes in several colours, cock's feathers worked to look like chenille, and long quills are among the many feather trimmings.

National Styles.

Marcelle Lely's high-crowned hats rise behind and have small cloche brims. The trimmings consist of coloured braids, and plaited straws in bright plaids. The fez, the cuffed cap, the Scotch bonnet, and the tam-o-shanter are worn at the moment; but the popularity of plaids and checks may not last much longer. A plaid hat and scarf, a checked skirt with a plain coat, a plain dress with a swaggar coat in check are ubiquitous, and it is a relief to see a neat navy blue coat-tune and a straw hat with white washing trimmings.

Maize yellow with black, brown, or grey is a coming colour. There are maize yellow cottons for the morning, maize yellow three-quarter loose-fitting sport coats, and maize yellow evening dresses of crepe, satin, or tulle. Green is also being worn again in shades of apple leaf, jade, and olive. Petunia and cyclamen reds go together in evening dresses of crepe satin and flat crepes like Romain and georgette. Chiffon in these colours looks well; a cyclamen chiffon dress goes with a petunia velvet wrap.

Grey Popular.

Grey is widely worn. Jane Regny uses pale blue with pale grey for the afternoon. Jean Patou has a scale of pearl grey flat crepes with which he puts coloured velvet wraps for the evening and brightly coloured trimmings for the day. Black is not shown without a good deal of colour.
It is used for trimmings and for coats to wear with bright summer dresses, and black net and lace evening dresses are made with white or coloured boleros.

Monkey Fur For Summer Season

Many Uses To Achieve Novel Style.

MONKEY fringe is having a really exciting "comeback," and it has never been more gracefully manipulated.

One Paris designer uses it in a most youthful manner, and achieves the new wide shoulder proportion in one instance by placing the fringe round a sailor collar on a black jacket. A black patent leather belt carries a fringe of the fur along the base, so that it hangs effectively in the form of a short peplum below the bodice line.
A black and white fancy striped silk blouse gives a different aspect from the bright coloured satins so much seen. All the models, in summer weight wool crepe, by the way, have a distinctive town air of simple elegance.

Another idea for using this 1933 summer version of fur trimmings in place of the too ubiquitous fur necklet is pleasing. This takes the form of a fairly wide, flat oblong scarf, just long enough to unfold the shoulder line with the tie end in front. The fringe rolls out in a flat belt carries a fringe of the fur
along the base, so that it hangs effectively in the form of a short
peplum below the bodice line.
A black and white fancy striped

The World's Greatest Discovery to kill PAIN

Pain is no respecter of persons. Pain is a cheat. It nags at your nerves and wears you down. It robs millions of happiness and contentment. Pain attacks come suddenly in many forms. There are Head Pains — Rheumatic Pains — Nerve Pains — Headache — Toothache — Earache — Sciatic Pains, etc. In minor cases of pain, take two or three "ASPRO" Tablets and that is usually the end of the attack. In major cases of pain, take "ASPRO" according to the instructions in the packet. "ASPRO" is the greatest antidote for pain yet introduced to the world. It is the easiest, quickest and most effective method of obtaining relief without harming the heart or stomach.

'ASPRO'

COMES TO HONG KONG

WHAT is 'Aspro'? 'Aspro' is the World's Master Medicine — a medicine that is safe, sure and certain. A medicine in tablet form, that it is easy to take anywhere at any time. A medicine with innumerable uses in every home. What does 'Aspro' do? 'Aspro' stops pain in a few minutes. It quickly relieves headaches. 'Aspro' will break up a 'Flu' attack practically overnight. 'Aspro' reduces Feverish Temperatures within 15 minutes. 'Aspro' brings sweet sleep to the sleepless. 'Aspro' contains no dangerous drugs nor narcotics. It does not harm the heart or upset digestion. A trial will prove 'Aspro' claims. Sold at all leading Dispensaries. Packets of 5's 20 Cents — 10's 40 Cents — 27's $1.00.

The World's Greatest Antidote Against FEVER

The main thing with fever is quick action at inception to reduce the temperature and arrest development. "ASPRO" eliminates feverish conditions because of its anti-pyretic (fever reducing) propensities, quickly reduces the high temperature and allays developments. "ASPRO" is far ahead of quinine because after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide or germ destroyer. It does not in any way harm the heart or stomach. For Dengue, Malaria, Ague or fever of any kind, simply take two tablets every two hours until the fever abates and the pain ceases. "ASPRO" reduces temperature within 15 minutes.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

The PURITY of 'ASPRO'

The purity of "Aspro" conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia (the guiding authority of the Medical Profession). Within "Aspro" there is no free Salicylic Acid therefore it does not affect the heart nor have any injurious after effects, such as palpitation, nausea, digestive or other troubles. Safeguard your heart and your health by always insisting on "ASPRO."

'ASPRO' BRINGS SWEET SLEEP TO THE SLEEPLESS

There are many thousands of people who now have sweet peaceful sleep, who hitherto hardly knew the meaning of a period of restfulness. "ASPRO" has brought about the transformation by its sweet soothing influence on the nerves, and breaking up of local feverish conditions. Two tablets before retiring in the usual dose, and it does not effect the Heart.

5 MINUTES FOR RELIEF WITH 'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about "Aspro." Its service is QUICK — safe, effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes, and then goes on to dispel, or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect the desired relief. Furthermore, you get no harmful after effects from "Aspro" as it is speedily eliminated from the system within a few hours.

Why 'ASPRO' Has a Universal Sale

The one big reason why "ASPRO" has a universal sale is because it has a universal use. It helps all from children to parents. It relieves all kinds of aches and pains. It is the quickest finisher of colds and influenza ever discovered. It relieves rheumatism in 6 1/2 minutes and saves many a good tooth if it is taken for toothache. You don't even have to lay up to take "ASPRO."

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

Probably the greatest users of "ASPRO" are women, for whom "ASPRO" has a special charm on account of the varied periodical experiences with which all women are familiar. They surely know just what a wonderful soothing and pain dispeller "ASPRO" is. Millions regularly take "ASPRO," the safe and effective medicine, to relieve their pain and accompanying physical depression, who before had to resort to dangerous drugs, narcotics or opiates. The understanding woman uses "ASPRO."

'ASPRO' IS A SAFE EFFECTIVE GARGLE SORE THROAT TONSILLITIS

Two "ASPRO" Tablets dissolved in four tablespoonsful of water make a very excellent gargle for sore throat, tonsillitis, and act as a deterrent. "ASPRO" has quick action in banishing influenza and cold attacks, because it is an anti-pyretic or fever destroyer, secondly, when ingested in the system it is a powerful internal antiseptic germicide.

How To Take 'ASPRO' For Colds and INFLUENZA

Take two "ASPRO" Tablets immediately the first sign of a Cold or Influenza appears. Take two tablets every three hours afterwards until symptoms disappear. A hot whiskey or lemon drink to be taken with the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking "ASPRO" for Influenza, to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. These instructions have been scientifically formulated, as a result of careful chemical research investigations and quick relief is obtained because after ingestion in the system, "ASPRO" is a solvent of uric acid, a powerful germicide — an antiseptic — is anti-pyretic — anti-periodic and anti-fermentative. "ASPRO" does not harm the heart. Always have it in the home ready for any emergency.

15 PROVED USES FOR 'ASPRO'

1. It relieves Headaches in 5 to 10 minutes.
2. It brings sweet sleep to the Sleepless.
3. It relieves Rheumatism in one night.
4. It will ease the nagging of Neuritis and Neuralgia.
5. Take "ASPRO" to relieve Toothache.
6. "ASPRO" taken according to directions will smash up a Cold or "Flu" attack in 24 hours.
7. It brings Relief without harming the Heart.
8. It soothes away Irritability.
9. It speedily reduces Temperature.
10. The stabbing pains of Sciatica and Lumbago can be hunted out with "ASPRO."
11. It can be taken at any time, in Train, Train, at Home, at Business — anywhere — everywhere.
12. It gives great relief to women when depressed.
13. It relieves Ill after effects of Alcohol.
14. It relieves Dengue and Malaria by reducing the Fever.
15. As a Gargle, "ASPRO" is wonderful for Sore Throats and Tonsillitis.

Don't Dope Deaden or Drug Headaches

It is one thing to deaden pains and aches with potent drugs or narcotics — it is quite another to obtain relief from these distressing circumstances by using pure medicine that gives quick relief by reaching the root of the complaints and removing causes without in any way affecting the system. "ASPRO" is safe because it is pure. It brings quick relief — it conforms to the standards of Purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia (the guiding authority of the Medical Profession). It does not contain caffeine, phenacetin, or any dangerous drug, and, furthermore, after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide — a solvent of uric acid — is antiseptic — anti-pyretic — anti-periodic and anti-fermentative.

KOWLOON BOWLING GREEN DEFEAT CRAIGENGOWER BY 9 SHOTS

SWIMMING.

S. CHINA SECURE FOUR POLO POINTS

Chinese Bathing Club's Bad Luck.

Y.M.C.A. "B" LOSE 5-0.

Owing to being in the unfortunate position of not having more than eight playing members, two of whom are in Canton and two ill, the Chinese Bathing Club were yesterday evening compelled to concede a walk over to South China "B" in the Hong Kong Water Polo League.

In the other game played at the Chinese Civil Servants' Bathing Club, South China "A" defeated the Y.M.C.A. "B" by five goals to nil in one of the poorest games seen locally.

Wrongful tackling by South China players led to frayed tempers, two Y.M.C.A. members being ordered out of the water.

The Y.M.C.A. team were unfortunately very badly let down by two of their members and had to be content with playing one of the spectators, who, although he did his best, was a passenger throughout the game.

Fowler Ordered Out.

An unfortunate incident occurred in the latter stages of the second half when G. Fowler was ordered out of the water for deliberately obstructing a free throw. Kwok Chun-hang, the South China pivot, was twice ordered out for wrongful tackling.

Bad marking by the "Y" backs and centre half was responsible for three goals, while the ordering out of a Chinese player failed to give "Y" an opportunity of scoring. G. Fowler hitting the cross-bar, when unmarked in front of goal.

The first half started off at a brisk pace, Fowler taking possession from the swim up, but a wild pass by Chadderford saw Cheung Wing-kwong swim through unchallenged to score.

Fowler Again Misses.

From the restart, a wrongful tackle by Chan Shui-lam resulted in that player being ordered out of the bath. Sutherland, taking the throw, passed back to Fowler, who hit the cross bar when unmarked in the goalmouth.

Almost immediately after, Fowler was ordered out for being in the South China two yard mark. Lee Ping-ku swimming through from the free throw to beat S. Fowler with a low shot.

Changing over play became very scrappy, both sides frequently infringing. South China added a further two goals through Chan Wing-kwong and Chan Shui-lam, scored the fifth when Fowler was ordered out for obstructing a free throw by Chan Wing-kwong.

South China "A"—Kwok Mok-hoi, Chan Shui-lam and Yeung Yuen-wa, Kwok Chun-hang, Cheung Wing-kwong, Kwok Chun-hang and Li Ping-pui. Y.M.C.A. "B"—S. Fowler, G. Chadderford and K. Jenner. H. Langer, D. Sutherland, G. Fowler and A. Mitchell.

TEAM CALLED OFF THE FIELD.

Wolves In Football Scene In France.

Nice, May 26.

Wolverhampton Wanderers drew 3-3 against the Nice Club here. The quality of the football was somewhat marred by disputes by players of both sides, chiefly because of the Frenchmen resenting the heavy shoulder charging of the England players.

At one time the manager of the English team called his men off the field, but was persuaded to allow them to resume. Five minutes before the end two players, one from either team, were sent off the field.—Reuter.

South China Function Well Attended.

S.C.A.A. PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Over 300 hundred guests attended the dinner at the South China Athletic Association last night in honour of the South China and Chinese Selected Football Teams who won the Senior League, the Senior Shield, the "Sunday Herald" International Charity Cup competition and the Lai Wah Cup competition.

Mr. M. K. Lo, the President of the South China A. A., was in the Chair, and was supported by Messrs. Chan Lim-pak, O. W. Luke, and Li Tze Chung of the South China Athletic Association.

Seated at the main table were the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chan, Patron of the Association, Captain C. E. Elliott-Heywood, Mr. Y. K. Mok, Chairman of the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation, Mr. T. A. Mitchell, President of the Kowloon Football Club, Mr. J. D. Bush, Hon. General Secretary of the S. C. A. A., Dr. J. H. McElroy, Chairman of the Hong Kong Football Club, A. R. Hughes, representing the Royal Navy, J. L. McPherson, Major C. M. Manners, Chairman of the Hong Kong Football Association, and others.

MR. M. K. LO'S SPEECH

Mr. M. K. Lo, the President in proposing the toast to the South China Football team said:

It is to me, a great pleasure and a great privilege to propose the toast, "The South China Athletic Association Football Team."

I am sure that no words are necessary from me to commend this toast to your cordial acceptance. But I must tell you that the S. C. F. A. is very proud of its team, which has won, for our Association for the third time, the Senior League Championship as well as the Senior Shield competition.

I shall not make any reference to the Lai Wah Cup and the Sunday Herald winning teams, but I feel that I ought to mention that in both of these teams many of our S. C. A. A. players took part.

Gentlemen, the primary object of this dinner is not so much to celebrate victories won as to promote friendship and mutual understanding. Proud as we are of our team winning for the S. C. A. A. the League and Senior Shield, we are prouder still of its combination of prowess and sportsmanship which, through the instrumentality of keen, clean, and friendly rivalry on the football field amongst members of the various nationalities in Hong Kong, has enabled the S. C. A. A., as one of the leading athletic institutions, to make an increasingly vital contribution towards the cause and ideal of international friendship and understanding.

I ask you to rise with me in drinking a bumper to the S. C. A. A. Football team.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Li Tze Chung the Chairman, in his opening address which was given in Chinese, said:

This evening we are greatly honoured by the presence of so many distinguished guests at our dinner in celebration of our winning the two Championships in the Football League. To them I have much pleasure in extending our hearty welcome. As Chairman of the Association I feel it falls on me to say a few words as to why we are here this evening. First, we wish to tell you we do not mean to "show off" on this occasion. The aim of our Association is to provide its members with useful and healthy recreations, to foster the spirit of sportsmanship, and to establish friendly relations with other athletic associations.

As we all know, the importance of sports is recognised throughout the civilized world. We want to encourage youth to follow the right path with the right spirit in physical culture; where there is the spirit of team work and grit, it is not difficult to achieve championship status in interport or international sports.

I will take this opportunity of congratulating the Captain and Vice-Captain, the Committee, and the members of the teams on the signal

A. M. HOLLAND'S RINK RESPONSIBLE

JUNIOR TEAM DISPLACED BY CHAMPIONS

INDIANS RECORD INITIAL WIN AND POLICE WIN BY ONE SHOT

THE Kowloon Bowling Green took another step towards winning the premier Lawn Bowls League yesterday when they defeated Craigen-gower Cricket Club, the Champions, by 9 shots after being beaten on two of the three rinks.

The champions, however, turned the tables on the Bowling Green junior team to assume the leadership for the first time this season.

The Recreation recorded their fifth win to tie with the Bowling Green at the head of the premier league, and the Police showed a return to the form they displayed earlier in the season to beat the Civil Servants by 30 shots—the biggest win of the day. The Kowloon Docks rose to fifth position by a narrow win over the K.C.C.—it was the Kowloon Club's fifth defeat.

The Indian Recreation Club provided the sensation in the junior division by beating the Recreation on all three rinks to win by 19 shots. It was the newcomers' initial success. The Civil Servants surprised the Yacht Club on their own green to jump into second place in the table, and the Police just got home against the Electric by one shot in the closest game of the season.

Adam Holland's rink was responsible for the Bowling Green's surprising triumph after being down on the other two rinks. Playing consistently good bowls Holland's rink (R. Duncan, C. E. Elliott-Heywood, and W. Macfarlane) played havoc with R. Basa's quartette to win by 24 shots to 5. The champions' four scored on only five of the 21 heads.

Scoring a 6 on the ninth end L. Guy's rink were beaten by one shot after having led 21-12 at the 17th end. B. W. Bradbury's four won all the remaining four ends to win 22-21.

Only one other six was recorded—W. S. Drake's four achieving the feat on the 17th end to turn a 14-11 deficit into a 17-14 advantage. They beat W. Gill's rink by one shot after being led 19-17 on the 19th end.

BASEBALL CHAMPIONS WIN OVER U.S. NAVY

Three Pitchers Used To Stop Sailors.

STORIE IMPRESSES.

(By THE KID.)

The South China Baseball team redeemed their reputation yesterday when they beat the strong American Navy team by 5 to 2 in a very even encounter.

South China used three pitchers to stop the sailors. Henry Young started on the mound—he held the sailors for no score for the first three innings. Ed. Chang relieved him in the third, after he had let two men get on the bases, and B. Chang finished the game for the Chinese.

The game started off with another pitcher's battle. Young for the Southerners and Storrie for the sailors. The Chinese, however, scored in the third inning to break the ice. Fong slammed a three-bagger and crossed the rubber when Chang hit the ball to Rose, who threw wide to home plate. Chang advanced to third by stealing, and later scored on Kim's sacrifice hit.

Good Pitching in Fourth. The sailors in their third inning pushed one marker across. O'Connor hit safely, stole second, advanced to third on a fly to centerfield and scored when Ed. Chang threw wild to third trying to catch him at the base.

NO INTERPORT

Shanghai Association Steer Clear Of Trouble.

The V.R.C. have received an official letter from Mr. G. A. Johnston, Secretary of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association, stating that they cannot send a team to Hong Kong for the Interport as accepting one party's invitation will result in strained relations with the other. The Shanghai Association also received an invitation from the Hong Kong Amateur International Swimming Association.

SUSSEX FAIL BEFORE ESSEX FAST BOWLING

Nichols And Daer Bowl Unchanged.

HAMMOND AND HEADLEY SCORE DOUBLE CENTURIES

Century To Jack Hobbs

London, Yesterday.

Two collapses before fast bowling has caused Sussex to be 32 points behind Yorkshire in the County Cricket Championship table—and they have the advantage of having played two additional games.

Yesterday Nichols (10 for 104) and A. G. Daer (9 for 75) were largely responsible for a surprise Essex win over the most formidable southern county. This was the second defeat experienced by Sussex, Middlesex having won at Lord's.

Essex are now third in the table.

Jack Hobbs revealed that he is by no means the batsman of the past when he treated the Oval crowd to a glorious century against Warwickshire. It was his second of the season and enabled Surrey to secure the major points. Sharing with Yorkshire the distinction of not having been beaten, Surrey have secured first innings points on six occasions in their eight matches.

Wally Hammond, the Test hero, played a characteristic knock for 239, scored out of 529, against Glamorgan, while George Headley, the "Black Bradman" of the touring West Indian eleven, recorded his second double century of the season when he scored 200 not out in a total of 346 for 8 against Derbyshire. It was his fourth three-figure innings.

Brilliant bowling by Sam Staples, who would almost assuredly have taken Maurice Tate's place in the M.C.C. Australian team had the Sussex player been unable to make the trip, gave Notts their second win of the season. Taking 6 for 28—the best feat of the day—Staples dismissed Hampshire for 106 in their second innings.

Lancashire had the better of exchanges against Kent at Tonbridge, in spite of good bowling by Tich Freeman (7 for 114 in a total of 321). Hopwood, one of the most promising all-rounders in the country, hit up 119 while Iddon contributed 192 to the total of 321.

Maurice Turnbull, who scored a double century against Northants in the last match, followed this up with 122 against Gloucester. Aided by a debut century by Duckfield Glamorgan totalled 454 against Gloucester's 529 to save the following on.

Gibbons, one of the most attractive batsmen in County Cricket, scored 155 by aggressive methods against Leicester. In a big partnership with Nichol (111), Gibbons was responsible for Worcester securing major points after the home county had declared at 357 for 9. Worcester were only 07 behind when stumps were drawn.

Results as cabled by Reuter:

Middlesex beat Somerset by 8 wickets at Lord's. Somerset 268 and 94. Middlesex 266 and 82 for 2.

LESLIE'S GOOD TURN FOR DODGERS

Cubs Beat Pirates In Curtailed Card.

New York, Yesterday.

Traded by the Giants on Thursday for Clark and O'Doul, Leslie banged out a homer for Brooklyn Dodgers against the Giants yesterday.

His effort was largely responsible for the defeat of the Giants by a 3 to 1 tally.

Chicago Cubs won the only other major league game played when they beat Pittsburgh Pirates by 9 to 1. De Maree hit a four-bagger for the Cubs.

Rain caused the abandonment of two matches—Boston v. Philadelphia Phillies in the National League, and Cleveland Indians v. Detroit Tigers in the American League.

EUROPE'S PEASANT POWERS DANGERS OF DANUBIAN UNION

BULGARIA REMAINS THE KEY TO THE BALKANS

London, May 22. THE policy of Great Britain at the forthcoming World Economic Conference is still undefined. Meanwhile, two important concentrations of forces and interests are taking place on the Continent of Europe which will exercise a powerful influence on the decisions of the Conference.

In Paris an Imperial Economic Conference—a French Ottawa—is sitting to adjust outstanding questions between France and her vast overseas Empire, questions chiefly relating to currency stabilisation, the distribution of raw material and the regulation of Algerian wine imports into France.

From the discussions which have taken place it is clear that the French are determined to adopt a defensive policy at the London Conference, and to present economic unit.

And in Bukarest, towards the end of this month, a meeting of the Eastern Europe Agrarian bloc, consisting of Poland and the Baltic States, Czechoslovakia and the Balkan Powers, will be held to formulate a common programme to be advocated at the World Conference.

For these former States of Eastern Europe the main issue to be fought in London is not the battle of gold, but the battle of wheat.

All these States live principally by agriculture. Most have a grain surplus. It is to convert this surplus into foreign banking credits, shipping, locomotives, machinery and, in some cases, foreign war material, that the starving if belligerent peasant States are sending their statesmen to London.

The Green International. By the threat of opening their gates to each other and closing their gates to the industrial products of Western Europe they hope to break down the tariff walls which the grain-consuming industrial countries have created against them in the past.

Against the heavy industries and the bankers of the West—the twin internationalisms of Steel and Gold—the former States of the East have revived a notion which haunted the Balkan capitals in the years which followed the war, the fantastic, almost fabulous notion of a Green International.

I can still see the burly figure of the author of this project, the murdered Bulgarian statesman Stamboulski.

Short, broad-shouldered, black-moustached, stubble-haired, he charged with a peasant's blind and bull-headed courage at the obstacles which stood in his path and the path of his country. He struggled against the fanatical Nationalists in his own land, the professional politicians and the armed bands of refugees who provoked strife with Bulgaria's neighbours by their incursions into Macedonia, with the same rugged obstinacy with which he opposed the Bulgarian Tsar Ferdinand's entry into the war on the side of the Central Powers, paying for his courage by being condemned to imprisonment for life for lese majeste.

Stamboulski's Vision. And when he and his party of land-hungry peasants were overthrown in the Nationalist coup d'etat of 1923, and Stamboulski was murdered in the uprising, he died convinced that the farmers of Europe would one day organise, that his chromatic vision of a Green International would at last be realised.

I have been vividly reminded of the sturdy peasant-statesman of the Bulgars in reading Miss Henrietta Leslie's vivid study of life in Bulgaria, just published here (Jarrolds, 21s.) under the title, "Where East is West." Stamboulski was typical of the long-submerged peasant class in the Balkans. In his hard, silent, and almost fanatical integrity, he was peculiarly Bulgarian—a nation which, unlike most of its Balkan neighbours, has learned in five centuries of oppression to suffer in silence.

His fate was the fate of the moderates everywhere where nationalist feeling outstrips and is fiercely intolerant of moderation. Like Rathenau in Germany, he was killed by his fellow-countrymen, tracked and shot down like a wild beast.

Since his death his country has known an uneasy succession of semi-dictatorial governments. On at least one occasion—in 1925—it only escaped war with Greece by the intervention of the League of Nations, the League's solitary success in a long series of failures.

An Ostracised Land.

It has been the most uniformly neglected of the vanquished belligerents of the Great War in the successive attempts at treaty revision. It failed at the Lausanne Conference of 1922-1923 to obtain the outlet on the Aegean Sea promised under the Treaty of Neuilly. For years it has suffered from a measure of diplomatic and economic ostracism by the rest of Europe.

And yet, despite its strategic isolation; despite the long succession of disasters which have overtaken it; despite its heavy territorial losses in the second Balkan War and the Great War, Bulgaria remains the key to the Balkans.

Time after time in the history of the last half-century it has taken the initiative in, or led the resistance to, European political changes of the first importance.

Since their heroic insurrection against the Turkish oppressor in 1876, which resulted two years later in their own liberation, the role of the Bulgars in Balkan history has been preponderant.

They fought their Serbian and Greek allies in 1912 to wrest from them Bulgaria's own share of the territorial gains of the first Balkan

BRIDGE NOTES

The "No-Trump" Revived.

Nothing is more interesting to the philosopher and amusing to the cynic than the way in which opinions of the experts change about Contract Bridge.

The great point which has been dinned into our ears since the inception of Contract has been that an initial call of One No-Trump should never be made if a suit bid was possible. A No-Trump was permissible on a hand of pattern 4, 3, 3, 3, or possibly 5, 3, 3, 2, only when the four or five-card suit was not biddable. In preference to a No-Trump we were told to choose a suit of four headed by A, J, 10 or A, J, 9 or K, J, 10 or K, J, 9 or Q, J, 10, provided of course the hand contains at least two-and-a-half quick tricks.

Further we were instructed that the No-Trump bid should not be made unless three suits were fully guarded and the fourth suit potentially guarded—a potential guard being Queen and another or Knave to three. The reason given was that an initial bid of One No-Trump is always ambiguous. While it reveals a certain amount of strength, it gives partner no inkling as to where that strength lies, whereas the bid of a suit, even though it be only a four-card suit, conveys a definite notion and is more helpful in construction. While the ultimate destination may be a No-Trump declaration, it was held to be better to feel your way and approach slowly. In fact the No-Trump bid was deprived of its pride of place and relegated to an inferior position in the gamut.

Now, however, a mighty change has occurred. The No-Trump has been restored to its ancient dignity. It is given the position of honour and is recommended on hands even when a suit bid would appear in the nature of things preferable.

The latest exponents of this return to the Englishman's favourite bid are Mr. E. Gordon Reeve and Captain John Cragie, a son of the novelist who wrote under the name of "John Oliver Hobbes." Mr. Reeve took the trouble to deal out 5,000 hands and the results of his analysis of 100,000 combinations convinced him that the initial No-Trump bid was to be aimed at and preferred to all other declarations. In each 100 hands, he states, the game was made in 140 different ways made up as follows:—

No Trumps	56
Spades	28
Hearts	28
Diamonds	14
Clubs	14

Further examination showed that where game could be made only in one denomination, the result was:—

No Trumps	20	i.e.	4-1
Spades	4	"	24-1
Hearts	4	"	24-1
Diamonds	1	"	99-1
Clubs	1	"	99-1

Game being made in No Trumps 56 times out of a total of 70, left only 14 hands where games could be made in a suit or suits only. Of these 14, 10 could be made in a particular suit only, and four in more than one suit. While the authors of the book, entitled the "Revue System," do not say that every hand should be played in No Trumps, they make it clear that, with a certain count, the No-Trump bid is to be preferred always to a suit declaration, even with a five card major suit headed by A, K, Q, and two suits unguarded. After giving four examples of hands which no one would dispute are sound No-Trumpers they advocate a No-Trump bid on:—S-A-K-Q-x-x H-K-J-x D-J-x-x C-Q-J on the theory that the declarer is taking a 24 to 1 chance in Spades against a 4 to 1 chance of making game in No Trumps. Again Z, not vulnerable, bids One No-Trump holding:—S-A-Q-x H-K-x-x D-K-x-x C-J-x-x. His partner, Y, with S-x-x H-A-Q-J-x-x D-A-x-x C-x-x, replies with Three Hearts, whereupon Z bids Three No Trumps. The idea is that Z bids Three No Trumps in preference to Four Hearts because he has no ruffing value in his hand and the game is therefore more probable in No Trumps than in Hearts. But with no guard in Clubs, a doubtful finesse in Spades, the advisability of the bid is not apparent. On

HEALTH REFORM FOR BRITAIN

Countess Sets List Of Rules.

MINISTRY OF GASTRONOMY

London.

The Countess Ellen de Armil, the English wife of a Portuguese diplomat, has drawn up a list of rules which she would have enforced if she were dictator of England.

She believes that if a "woman were given autocratic powers in Britain for one week she would revolutionise the country and the health of the people."

Her rules are:
Make the drinking of cocktails by people under 21 a penal offence.

Prohibit women from making up in public. Prohibit pipe-smoking in public halls. Make the drinking of at least one glass of fruit juice per day compulsory for everyone.

Make five years' hard labour the minimum sentence for cruelty to children or animals. Do away with bare-back evening dresses. Decrease mixed classes in all schools. Submit all proposed laws affecting women for approval to a panel of women.

Insist that no man dance in a stiff-fronted shirt.

Set up a Ministry of Gastronomy under a woman which would teach housewives how to make good coffee and prepare wise diets.

The Countess, who has always been interested in domestic matters, took a job as house-parlour-maid, under an assumed name in 1924, in order that she might learn something of the life of a domestic servant.

Before her marriage she was a lecturer at the Sorbonne in Paris.—Reuter.

U.S. POST OFFICE DINNER.

Guests Pay Postage-Due On Invitations.

New York.

The U.S. post office department caused quite a lot of embarrassment to those who arranged a dinner in honour of the new Postmaster-General, Mr. Farlow on May 13.

The invitations were very swanky: Pure linen envelopes, engraved cards, a return envelope for acceptance.

Before posting any of the invitations, the committee was careful to weigh a sample at the post-office. It fell just within the 5 cents limit. Several hundred invitations were mailed forthwith.

Imagine the committee's chagrin on learning that several of the invitations had reached the addressees with postage-due notices affixed.

It had been rainy in New York for several days and the committee thinks that perhaps the wet weather made the linen envelopes a bit heavy.—Reuter.

such a hand most of us would be content with a partial score. Z, having called a minimum No-Trump, should leave the Three Heart bid as he has no further values to disclose. The King of Hearts is part of his No-Trump equipment. To bid Three No Trumps is to bid his hand twice over and is really worse than bidding Four Hearts.

The authors, however, appear to attribute no importance to a partial score. With them it is neck or nothing. Apparently they would prefer always to try for game in No Trumps rather than secure a substantial advantage below the line. The hand given could succeed in No Trumps only provided that the adversaries did not open and hold in partnership five winners in Clubs. Supposing only four Club tricks can be made the venture then depends upon the finessing of Spades.

To surrender a probable Three Hearts for a doubtful Three No Trumps may appeal to the gambler but hardly to the prudent player. While admitting that it is often desirable to secure the declaration in No Trumps rather than in a suit, since at love score three by cards instead of four, yield game, the authors have pressed their point too far—they have the No-Trump complex.

War Debts And The Conference.

THE war debt fiasco, together with the reports that a pessimistic outlook prevails in most European capitals did not improve the prospects of the World Economic Conference; and the formal routine of the opening sessions, the proceedings of which were not unnaturally almost completely devoid of any happenings of a spectacular nature, have dampened the enthusiastic expectations of many. The lack of assurance that the bargaining which had caused the breakdown of the other international conferences of the past few years, the apathetic attitude to the tariff truce, and the divergence of the views expressed in the opening speeches of the delegates of the principal nations, created despondency, which grew to open apprehension when the United States delegation failed to appear at the first working session of the Conference on Tuesday. Towards the end of the week a better tone has existed, and the progress made be regarded as fairly satisfactory. Firstly, the rivalry between France and the United States for the Chairmanship of the important Monetary Commission did not develop seriously, France compromising on the basis that Mr. Cox's Chairmanship be a definite step in the direction of British and American currency stabilisation. The appointment may be significant in that France is opposed to the inflation schemes advanced by America. Perhaps the most encouraging news concerns the fact, announced yesterday, that forty-one nations, representing among them approximately 80 per cent of world trade, have now signified adherence to the tariff truce. Originally only the eight Powers represented on the Organizing Committee of the Conference subscribed to the truce, and as recently as a week ago it was reported that only six other nations were willing to join in the truce.

The absurd situation which has arisen over the war debts has prejudiced the London Conference. Despite the terms of the British Note which accompanied the December payment last year, the United States administration has postponed the issue, and the unfortunate results were seen on June 15, when four nations, headed by Great Britain and Italy, made token payments, Finland, whose debt was the insignificant sum of G$148,592, alone paying the June instalment in full. These token payments are futile; they satisfy neither the debtor nations nor the United States, and will prove detrimental rather than beneficial to subsequent negotiations. The consistent stand taken by France, who bluntly refuses to pay until a settlement on the whole question has been effected, is much more likely to produce results. Without a war debt settlement nothing can be achieved at the World Economic Conference and the failure to secure a settlement has created a situation which threatens grave consequences. The blame for that failure must be shared by the American Congress and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. Since the Lausanne Agreement was signed, America has avoided the war debt issue, refusing to negotiate for concessions. President Roosevelt has shown a realization of the position and has indicated that he would be prepared to grant reasonable concessions, but Congress has refused to face realities. A typical statement was that made last week by a leading Republican Senator who declared: "Pay all or pay none." Mr. MacDonald is guilty in that he again allowed ideals to dominate realities. Sent to Washington as a war debt Ambassador, he practically ignored the key problem, preferring to deal with wider, but secondary, economic issues and Disarmament. Without an understanding for a final disposal of the war debt problem his visit, as a large section of the British Press has pointed out, was a waste of time. Without a final settlement the Economic Conference is doomed to failure. Public opinion has been hardened on both sides of the Atlantic by the events of June 15; and then if a debt decision continues to be delayed the American delegation's withdrawal from the Conference session last Tuesday may prove the turning-point for the Conference's collapse. Any further hesitancy will prove fatal. If President Roosevelt, as has been stated, is contemplating a visit to London, he would be well advised to start immediately and settle a problem which has not only damaged international relations but has also operated as one of the chief factors causing the acute economic depression. The exasperating aspect of the whole affair is that the consequences of postponement of the war debt issue were foreseen by almost the entire Press of the world — yet the world's statesmen have continued to muddle along in an unending series of dreary and futile conferences.

RELIGIOUS ARTICLES APPRECIATED.

(To the Editor "Sunday Herald.")
Sir,—May I take the opportunity through your columns of expressing my very deep appreciation of the articles on religious matters appearing in your paper every Sunday. There are many, who like myself, have found them a tremendous inspiration. I would mention in particular the one of Sunday last. The author is unknown to me. I do not know to what branch of the Church he belongs, but the fact is that anyone can read and be helped by them irrespective of creed. Our thanks are due too, to the proprietors of the paper for throwing their columns open to such good purpose. "CONSTANT READER."

PRaise FOR A FILM.

(To the Editor "Sunday Herald.")
Sir,—I think a word of the highest praise should be extended to the film which opened at the Central yesterday, "Tell Me Tonight." I was thrilled by the singing of Jan Kiepura, who is the possessor of a beautiful voice, singing with such ease and a range that extends to the high "C" in alt. He not only gives us the lovely theme song, but excerpts from Grand Opera, including a scene from La Boheme. What is more to the point, he is attractive and a decidedly pleasing personality, which makes up for the lack of acting ability. One can hardly speak of this film as "The best yet turned out of England." The director is Russian, the star-Polish, the leading lady-German, music by a Russian; and the film was "Shot" in Switzerland. Admitted the rest of the cast who play small parts are British. Anyhow the film is most certainly worth while for the music is a rare treat for the Hong Kong public. A. M. L.

"WEDDING DEPOSIT REGAINED"

Bridegroom's Ruse On Day of Ceremony.

THE DILATORY LOVER

Perugia, Italy.
A dilatory lover who kept on putting off his wedding-day exasperated the girl's father to such an extent that the latter insisted on a deposit—to be returned to the young man immediately after the marriage had taken place. The young man paid over the agreed amount and everything seemed in order. On the day of the ceremony, the bride was in her wedding finery, the witnesses had assembled and there was only one black spot on the happy picture of the intended bridegroom. He looked extremely dejected. "Buck up!" the bride's father exhorted. "What is the matter? Here—take that money now! I suppose that was what was depressing you." "What is the matter, dear?" The bride-to-be inquired. "I am very cross—with myself," the young man told her. "I had no time to shave this morning. And I'm afraid that it will bring our wedding bad luck!"

"Well—go and get a shave now!" the girl replied with a merry laugh. "There's still half an hour before we are due to leave for the church." The face of the young man cleared. "Right!" he said. He ran out of the house. He has not been heard of since. Reuter.

OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

Prince Festetics.

The late Prince Taszillo Festetics, who has died at an advanced age, was a genial sportsman who bore a startling facial resemblance to Mr. George Lansbury. Although he was the first holder of a title created as recently as 1911, the family is a very old one. At the ancestral castle of the Festetics in Hungary into which burglars penetrated a year or two ago, and took away jewellery from the room in which the Prince was sleeping, some strange medieval customs were continued up to 1914. As at certain other seats of the Continental nobility, the servants used to wear a thin gold cord round the shoulders as a part of their livery.

This denoted that their employer had inherited the power to put them to death. That power was exercised, though not by the Festetics family, as recently as the 'sixties.

£50 for a Woodcock.

A friend who shot with the Prince in Berkshire many years ago said that the Prince's ambition, for long unrealised, was to shoot a woodcock. He was a good shot, but the little bird that darts in swift zig-zag fashion like forked lightning had always eluded him.

When at last he managed to bring one down he was so delighted that he gave the head-keeper £50 and asked him to stay at his castle in Hungary.

New R. G. S. President.

Major-General Sir Percy Cox, who is to be proposed by the council of the Royal Geographical Society as the society's next president, has a remarkable record of service in the East, particularly in Persia and Arabia. He is tall, silver-haired, and very erect; and he is a monument of patience and courtesy.

His patience was famous throughout the Middle East. He could listen for hours on end to argumentative Arab sheikhs without the least ruffling of temper—without, indeed, any betrayal of emotion. Arabs give nicknames only to the eminent. They gave one to Sir Percy. They called him Abu Khartum—that is, "the Father of the Trunk." This was a reference to his masterful nose.

Inscrutable as the Sphinx.

The late Dr. D. G. Hogarth, who "ran" the Arab revolt during the war, used to tell a story of Sir Percy. The two men met at the Cairo Conference of 1921, whither all the Arab experts had been summoned by the Colonial Secretary, then Mr. Winston Churchill. "I took him," said Dr. Hogarth, "to the Pyramids. I looked at the Sphinx, and then I looked at Sir Percy, and I wondered which held the more mystery."

Sir Percy Cox has a warm heart. He gave valuable help to Mr. Bertram Thomas and Mr. St. John Philby, the two explorers of the Great Arabian Desert which, about thirty years ago, he himself wanted to penetrate.

Portraiture Under Difficulties.

To perpetuate the memory of a good season's hunting in the Cotswolds, Mr. Paul Mellon, son of the late retired U.S. Ambassador, was painted by Mr. A. J. Munnings on his favourite hunter, which he had brought over from America. The picture was made under difficulties. Mr. Honor, in whose stables the horse was kept, refused to allow it to stand without a blanket. "How would you like to stand for hours out in this yard without your pants and vest?" he challenged Mr. Munnings. Mr. Mellon has now taken both horse and picture back to America. The latter he bought for £750.

Lord Granville.

Diplomacy runs in the blood of Lord Granville, who is relinquishing the post of British Ambassador at Brussels, to which he was appointed in 1928, after distinguished service in Paris, Berlin, Athens, and The Hague.

His father, the second earl, was Foreign Secretary under Gladstone, and his grandfather, Lord Granville Leveson-Gower, founder of the family fortunes, was our Ambassador in Paris and St. Petersburg in the days of Napoleon.

An incident during the first earl's Ambassadorship in Russia led to a terrible tragedy. For some alleged neglect of his interests while in St. Petersburg, a crazy merchant, John Bellingham, went to the House of Commons to shoot Lord Granville. He mistook his man, and instead murdered the Prime Minister, Mr. Spencer Perceval.

Dr. Jocelyn Perkins.

Westminster Abbey's treasures of embroidered and other fabrics have hitherto been stored away in odd corners. Now they are perfectly housed for the first time in the undercroft of the chapter house.

No one is more gratified than Dr. Jocelyn Perkins, who, as sacrist, has their charge.

Dr. Perkins has held his present office for thirty-four years, and out of his wide liturgical and ecclesiastical knowledge he has been instrumental in restoring many of the old ceremonial glories of the Abbey.

Settled habits are hard to displace; and it speaks volumes for Dr. Perkins's enthusiasm and tact that he has accomplished so much without having a direct voice in the government of the Abbey.

The Norwegian Club.

A fine example was set to some of our after-dinner speakers by the rule at the Norwegian Club dinner—no speech to exceed five minutes!

The time proved adequate for the expression of many charming sentiments, all in Norwegian, and the Queen of Norway, who was the principal guest, was greatly interested in the brief orations.

Norway is the one country in Europe which buys more from us than we take from her. But that Anglo-Norwegian relations are cordial, in the social as well as the commercial field, could easily be seen at this gathering of 300 members of the club.

Sir Claud Schuster.

Sir Claud Schuster, the president of the Ski Club of Great Britain, presided at the club's spring dinner at the Park Lane Hotel. He was warmly welcomed by a number of ski-ing enthusiasts who had not seen him since his accident last year, when he broke his leg.

As becomes so distinguished an ornament of the Bar—he is Clerk of the Crown in Chancery and Permanent Secretary to the Lord Chancellor—he is a most accomplished after-dinner speaker.

Not even Mr. C. W. Richardson, who has been a member of the club since 1903, and is one of the many "Fathers of English Skiing," could shake Sir Claud's urbanity by his good-natured heckling.

Mr. Seligman's Film.

After dinner the club and its guests adjourned to an adjoining room where Mr. G. Seligman, the well-known writer on winter sports, showed a film which he had himself taken of this year's Arlberg-Kandahar race.

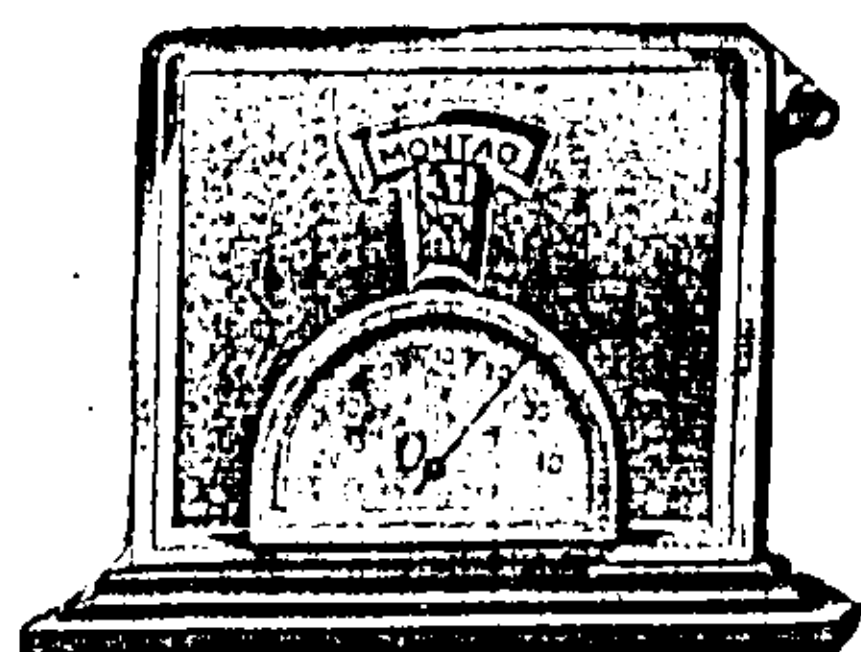

Before the performance Mr. Seligman professed himself very nervous with regard to the film's quality. He need not have been, for as an amateur effort it was remarkably clear and good.

ENGLISHMAN LOST IN JUNGLE

Rangoon Engineer Has Terrible Experience.

FOUND BY SIAMESE HUNTERS

Search party after search party scoured the jungle in vain to find an Englishman who disappeared into the wilds. His wife was left in terrible anxiety for eight whole days.

The Englishman, with an over-keen and two dogs struggled on through the jungle for three days, weak with lack of food, scorched by the sun and exhausted by travel until he found a native village.

This adventure befell Mr. L. W. Elsum, a mining engineer, whose bungalow is 50 miles from Tavoy, in South Burma. He had gone out to examine the water supply of the neighbourhood, and was without food, for he had intended to return the same day.

At the end of an exhausting day, it was clear to the two men that they had completely lost their way. Hungry and weary, they went on for another day, and when the third dawned they decided that they must be somewhere near the Siamese border. So they went on.

Progress was slow, as they had to force their way through a wide stretch of tall rushes. Earlier in the day a maze of elephant tracks had added to their difficulties, for they seemed to lead everywhere but in the right direction.

"Now we passed through more open country, which gave us a much needed chance to recover," Mr. Elsum relates. "We encountered more rushes and soon were 'all in'."

"We walked in the stream bed wherever it was shallow enough, and then we made good time. Suddenly we heard a dog bark, so we at once set up a wild hallooing, as much as our swollen throats would allow, and were very glad to hear an answering yell."

The yell came from a party of young Siamese hunters, who eventually took Mr. Elsum and the overseer back to their village—where they found that the nearest telegraph office was five miles away.

The villagers fed them with mashed bananas, the only food their constricted throats could swallow—and even that was a painful business.

Guided by a man who had been to Tavoy 10 years before, they set off into Burma, sleeping out and "roughing it."

One stage from Tavoy, on the seventh day of their adventure Mr. Elsum thought that they would have a little comfort at last. He ordered "lashings of food and coffee for us all." But the coffee made them sick, and they were too tired to eat.

But the end of their trials was at hand, for Mr. Elsum relates, "the mail lorry turned up about noon, so we piled aboard for Tavoy, which we reached at about 3 p.m."—Reuter.

YOUNG CRIMINALS LEAD IN U.S.

January-March Figures Shown.

Washington, D.C. Youth is still leading the U.S. crime procession, reports the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Finger print cards, catalogued by the Justice Department's bureau from January 31 through March 31, are announced as showing that more persons 19 years of age were arrested than any other class.

The official announcement said that of the 80,745 arrests during the period, persons under 21 accounted for 45.8 per cent. of all motor-car thefts; 38.8 per cent. of the burglaries; 27.9 of the robberies; and 20.4 per cent. of the larcenies. A total of 24,842 arrests for disorderly conduct, drunkenness, vagrancy, suspicion and investigation were reported.—Reuter.

4,000,000 KIDDIES DIE OF NEGLECT.

Spanish Child Welfare Centre Revelation.

Madrid.

Nearly 4,000,000 young children have died in Spain since the end of the war—chiefly through neglect. The figures are revealed by the Child Welfare Centre and the director, Dr. Hernandez Briz, has addressed some strong observations on the subject to the mothers of Spain.

Too many children are abandoned, he declares, and have to spend their days begging and their nights sleeping in doorways—with the result that thousands perish in the cold of winter.

Dr. Briz says that most Spanish mothers are entirely unprepared for the care of motherhood. Lack of fresh air and over-feeding are two of the things from which their children suffer.

Efforts are to be made to educate Spanish mothers and leaders are being distributed throughout the country urging them to consult the local welfare establishments which are being established.—Reuter.

BELGRADE BANDIT IN SKIRTS.

Fear Of Scandal As Aid For Escape.

"PRETTY YOUNG WOMAN"

Belgrade.

An elderly bachelor of Zagreb awoke suddenly in the depth of night to find a pretty young woman, dressed in the height of fashion, standing by his bedside.

He raised such an alarm that the whole neighbourhood jumped out of bed.

The young woman fled over the roofs, with the more agile neighbours in hot pursuit. They scrambled from house to house until they caught up with the fugitive, and then a stiff fight following before she was captured.

So much strength in a girl amazed them, but they were not so surprised when it was revealed that "she" was a well known young bandit named Joseph.

Joseph had just finished six years in prison, and found that he was too well known by the police to carry on his "profession" in Zagreb.

So he bought girls' clothes from an exclusive dressmaker—and all was well for a time.

He found it easier to get into houses, to avoid unpleasant questions and to persuade men that his intentions were not felonious when he was dressed as a girl.

Joseph admits that he was allowed to go free twice when caught, but a scandal should result from the discovery of a girl in a man's flat late at night.—Reuter.

QUEER TREATMENT FOR ILLNESS.

Revelations From Nurse Nightingale's Book.

London.

Eighty years ago Florence Nightingale was known as the superintendent of an "Establishment for Gentlewomen During Illness," in other words, the matron of a nursing home.

"Recovering from an illness" must have been a rare term in grand-mother's day, according to the strenuous treatments described in Florence Nightingale's case book.

The book, recently presented to the hospital which bears her name, is dated "I, Upper Harley-street, 1853-54." All the entries are in her neat, fine handwriting.

The difficulty of heating water for warm baths made them almost a special treatment. On one occasion a patient and her two small boys were admitted to the Establishment, all suffering from eczema.

Miss Nightingale entered the treatment, "Warm bath three times a week. Ditto for children." Buffalo skin plasters were prescribed for bedsores.

Brandy was administered for dropsy.

A cruel treatment was given to a sufferer from epileptic fits, admitted in 1855. On one day the patient had:

Mustard poultices to calves of legs and soles of feet, cold water on the forehead, six leeches to the temple, blisters to the back of the neck, a bladder of ice on the head, an injection of turpentine and sal volatile.

Another entry in Miss Nightingale's book prescribes the treatment for ovarian dropsy as, "Strong perermint lozenges."—Reuter.

RABIES OUTBREAK IN COLONY.

Matter For Discussion By Sanitary Board.

INOCULATION PROPOSALS.

Questions regarding the reported existence of rabies in the Colony, and the measures being taken by the Government to prevent any increase in the number of cases, will be asked by Mr. Wong Kwong-tin and Dr. Li Shu-fan, at the meeting of the Sanitary Board, to be held on Tuesday next.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin will ask:—"In view of the reported existence of rabies will the Head of the Sanitary Department kindly supply the following information:—

(a) Is it the opinion of the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon that an increase in the number of cases of rabies is imminent?

(b) Can rabies be prevented by inoculation? If so, is the Government contemplating the provision of facilities for inoculation as is done in many countries?

(c) Would it be feasible for dogs so inoculated to be provided with distinctive badges, rendering them immune from (i) shooting (ii) muzzling?

Dr. Li Shu-fan, will ask:—"Will the Head of the Sanitary Department kindly furnish answers to the following questions relating to the occurrence of cases of rabies in the Colony?

(a) In how many years during the last ten have cases of canine rabies been known, entailing the enforcement of the Order for the restriction of dogs?

(b) In view of records, is it not a reasonable conclusion that the anti-rabies measures as at present adopted are at best only likely to temporarily control the spread of the disease, and cannot possibly stamp it out permanently, or even for any lengthy period?

(f) Have there been any instances in the Colony of case of rabies occurring among horses and cats during the last ten years? If so, how many?

(g) In the answer to Question (b) is in the affirmative, would Government be willing to consider the desirability of experimenting with a view to producing a local strain of the rabies virus which will serve as an effective vaccination against the disease, also bearing in mind the necessity of adequate supply and low cost of production, in order to bring it within reach of the General Public?"

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin will ask:—"In view of the reported existence of rabies will the Head of the Sanitary Department kindly supply the following information:—

(b) Can rabies be prevented by inoculation? If so, is the Government contemplating the provision of facilities for inoculation as is done in many countries?

(c) Would it be feasible for dogs so inoculated to be provided with distinctive badges, rendering them immune from (i) shooting (ii) muzzling?

THIS WORLD OF OURS.

ODD FACTS OF SCIENCE IN EVERYDAY LIFE.

Mechanism built into a French inventor's dining table brings food from a kitchen, passes portions to two persons at a time and later removes the used dishes to the kitchen.

A sharp pointed thermometer has been invented that can be thrust into a roast of meat in an oven to show if the interior is at the right temperature to be thoroughly cooked.

Extensive tests are being made at a German institute to ascertain the correct temperatures at which various work should be done by measuring the energy consumed by students.

A new plug for use with household electrical devices contains a pair of miniature fuses that will blow out in event of a short circuit without affecting the lights in a room.

For military purposes a motor truck has been invented in England having eight wheels that automatically adjust themselves to rough ground, each bearing its share of the load.

Square or star shaped holes can be bored in wood or metal with a tool invented by an Illinois man that can be used as an ordinary twist drill or with a portable electric drill.

A German scientist has developed a method for reducing almost all kinds of fruit to powdered form that retains original colours and flavours without using chemicals, heat or cold.

Scientists of the United States Department of Agriculture have found that cedar vapors, used in homes to repel moths, often paint used on woodwork by dissolving its drying oil.

A searchlight resembling a cannon, mounted on a motor truck, has been constructed by a British military inventor to project words and time from a transparent clock face on clouds.

FROM SECRETARY TO WIFE.

Romance Of Mrs. Edgar Wallace.

DIES 14 MONTHS AFTER HUSBAND.

London.

It was through answering an advertisement in the "Situations Vacant" column of a newspaper that Mrs. Edgar Wallace, widow of the novelist, met her future husband.

With the same tragic suddenness with which his life ended in Hollywood, she has died in London. Only 14 months after his death she had succumbed, as he did, from influenza followed by pneumonia.

"I have no idea why this special advertisement struck me as offering greater possibilities than any of the others," she wrote not long ago in "The Life Story of Edgar Wallace." "All I know is that it was the only one I answered."

That began her appointment as Edgar Wallace's secretary—an appointment that lasted five years and ended in her becoming Mrs. Wallace.

The engagement lasted almost a year. Then one day while he was dictating to her a serial entitled "The Three Oaks Mystery," he stopped in the middle of a sentence.

"What about popping round to the Registrar Office and finding out what it is we have to do?" he asked.

There was no honeymoon after the ceremony. They went back to his office, she opened her notebook, and "finished the sentence" which had been left in mid-air.

Mrs. Wallace helped in the plays her husband wrote, and became manager of Wyndham's Theatre, where many of his later successes were staged.

Like her husband, she was an enthusiastic follower of horseracing, but soon after his death she sold all her horses in an attempt to meet enormous debts.—Reuter.

QUOTAS CONDEMNED BY MUSSOLINI

"Italy Forced To Adopt Defence Measures."

AGRICULTURAL AID NEEDED

Rome.

Quotas and exchange restrictions were condemned by Signor Mussolini in a speech inaugurating the 18th session of the Parliamentary Conference of International Commerce.

"These measures," he declared, "adopted as a means of economic defence, hamper the flow of commerce by diminishing its volume and creating an injurious disparity between prices at home and abroad."

"Italy," he added, "has been forced against her will to adopt such measures, but has done so in as modest a form as possible and more especially in order to maintain the principle of reciprocity of treatment, with regard to certain countries."

After referring to the almost general conviction that the payment of international debts cannot be affected solely by the transfer of money, Signor Mussolini pointed out that in order to find a way out of the present economic morass simultaneous action must be taken in the spheres of credit, production and commerce.

Recalling that all economic forces which had met to consider the financial reconstruction of central and eastern European countries had emphasised the necessity of giving them some concrete assistance in order to raise their purchasing power, Signor Mussolini advocated agricultural help for these countries.—Reuter.

The Fight Against Pessimism

World Advancing To Greater Knowledge

DEPRESSION CANNOT TRIUMPH

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

"NOWADAYS the Church has lost caste!" Nowadays the Bible is neglected! Nowadays faith is on the wane, and most people don't believe anything at all!

How often we hear remarks of that nature, usually prefaced by the word "nowadays!"

It is nothing very new. There was a Hebrew farmer in the time of Samuel who used the very word. His name was Nahai, and he was, in modern parlance, a pretty nasty piece of work. When David sent his men to request some provender, in return for services rendered, he replied—"Who is David? There be many servants nowadays who break from their master."

The implication was of course, that in his young days servants never broke away. Things were very different in the times which he could remember. It is very difficult to fight against this kind of pessimism, because it is so unsubstantial, and dissolves into mist when you come to close quarters with it.

There are three things to note about that "nowadays" of Nahai, which hold good in most cases when that word is used in that particular way.

What about the man himself? He speaks as though he remembers something very different. Very good. But what was he doing to maintain the old standards? Nothing—less than nothing. His own personal manners and behaviour were such that servants would not need much encouragement to run away from his farm!

What business had he to complain, in general terms mark you, about servants "nowadays" when he behaves like a boor to his own? For any lapse which he may see around him, he is himself largely responsible.

Optimistic Workers.

It is a perfectly fair line of argument, and disposes of a good number of pious inexactitudes. When one hears a man talking about the lost influence of the Church, one is always inclined to enquire what is his own relationship to it. Whether he is loyally supporting it, and working in its interest, for experience has proved that a great deal of exaltation of the Church's past record at the expense of the present comes from those who are doing nothing to help it on its way.

There are exceptions of course, but as a rule it is not the active workers in any worthy cause who are lamenting its failure. The men who think the Country is going to the dogs, etc., are usually found lolling in armchairs in their clubs, not the ones who are putting their backs into constructive effort. It is not the active member of Christ's kingdom who thinks the day is lost. And to those who are fond of the "nowadays" type of complaint, one is entitled to ask what about your—

Courage Needed.

God rings no bell when He has some new purpose afoot in the world, and the thing for us to do, is to rest confidently in the faith that in His own good time He will see it through, and do all we can to help to make our corner of His world a brighter, better and happier place.

There is more of God and His goodness in the world than we suspect. When the hedges grow barer and bleaker every day, nature seems to be dying fast, but a few months later the sap mounts up in the trees and the Spring is on us almost before we can look around.

So let us have courage to believe and do our duty with loyalty and confidence. The present despite its troubles in international, economic and industrial life is not as bad as we might think. This is not the first time the history of Nations has been in the melting pot.

Ahead of us there is the future, albeit with possibility and gloom with hope, remembering always that

"Above the dim unknown Standeth God among the shadows, keeping watch above His own."

Germany's Colonial Art Exhibition.

Making Country "Colony-Minded."

Berlin.

Germany has opened a Colonial art exhibition with the idea of making the youth of the country "colony-minded" and to arouse the will to recover her lost possessions later on.

Opening the exhibition, the feature of which is a life-scale reproduction of the African Jungle scenes, Dr. Bohner, former governor of German East Africa and Lytton Commission, said that "youth must realize that our too German member of the confined home-land must be expanded through overseas possessions."

B. B. C. MONOPOLY TOO WIDE

New Zealand Tenor's Warning.

HARMFUL TO AUSTRALIA

Freemantle, West Australia. The alleged inclination of the British Broadcasting Corporation to establish a "bureaucracy by its policy of partially supplanting individual effort," was commented on by Mr. W. H. Dixon, New Zealand tenor and conductor of the Royal Christchurch Musical Society.

The B.B.C. appeared, he said, to be entering the field of the private entrepreneur. For instance, it was conducting concerts in the Queen's Hall, using its own artists exclusively, charging the public for admission, and broadcasting the programmes.

"This is having it both ways," Mr. Dixon said. "It is proving unfortunate for musical culture in the community." It was a question that must arise sooner or later in Australia.

"The Empire broadcast scheme is well on its way, and I would like to sound a warning here," he added. "It is intended to broadcast daily concerts. Is it wise that our entertainment should be centralised in London? It will certainly retard Australia's musical progress by restricting the opportunities of local performers and impeding the development of national talent."

"English professional musical life is in the doldrums because of the Corporation's unrestricted monopoly and exclusiveness," — Reuter.

Cairo. What is believed to be the first street ever constructed has been discovered by the Austrian expedition excavating at Merimda on the Western Delta.

The excavators declare that "The distribution of huts in definite streets during the middle period of the Neolithic age is surprising. There is no other known instance of such early date — 4,000 to 5,000 B.C. — Reuter."

Europe's Peasant Powers.

(Continued from Page 6.) War. Three years later it was in Bulgaria's power to turn the balance of the war against us in the Near East, but the Allied Governments (as I had good reason to know at the time) were blind to the fatal importance of Bulgaria, and attempted too late to bribe her from her allegiance to the Central Powers.

Two years ago, when M. Tardieu, then French Premier, produced his scheme of a Danubian Economic Union as a means of averting the financial collapse imminent in the South-eastern countries, he deliberately excluded Bulgaria from the project.

Danubian Union.

I am told that during the Anglo-French conversations of April 3 and April 4 last year, M. Tardieu succeeded in winning over Mr. MacDonald to his restricted Danubian Union, although in the Four-Power Conference which followed the Italian Government's protest against the exclusion of Bulgaria, supported by that of Germany, was sufficient to wreck the French plan.

The Danubian Union, nevertheless, is not yet dead.

Its chances have revived lately, and both France and Italy regard it favourably as an alternative to the Austro-German Anschluss. The forthcoming meeting of the Agrarian bloc at Bukarest is another step towards it. And recently there has been talk in the Balkan capitals of an economic union between the states of South-eastern Europe, which will include even Turkey.

Bulgaria, in spite of its resentful attitude towards Yugoslavia and Greece over their possession of Macedonia, and towards Rumania for its occupation of the Dobrouja, cannot be left out of this approaching concentration of former States.

The murdered peasant Premier who conceived the fantastic Green International lies in an obscure grave. But his romantic dream may yet come true.

F. E. SKINNER LEAVES FOR ENGLAND.

Presentation By K.C.C. Members.

KEEN YACHTSMAN.

F. E. Skinner, a prominent yachtsman in the Colony, left for England yesterday by the Glen Luce.

On the eve of his departure a presentation was made at the Kowloon Cricket Club in the presence of thirty members.

In handing Mr. Skinner a cup inscribed "With the Best of Luck from his K.C.C. Pals," Mr. Ezra Abraham, Vice-President of the Club, wished him many happy years in the Home country.

Mr. Abraham remarked that Mr. Skinner had been a member of the K.C.C. for four years, having joined soon after he arrived in the Colony. In addition to serving on the general committee, Mr. Skinner had acted as Honorary Treasurer of the Club for two years. In his sporting activities, Mr. Skinner had proved himself an all-rounder. He had played cricket for the first and second elevens, and had also represented the Club at bowls and tennis. "His services will be greatly missed in the Lawn Tennis League this year," concluded Mr. Abraham.

Mr. Skinner was then toasted with musical honours.

KID CHOCOLATE LEAVES U.S.

Kid Chocolate, the Cuban holder of the world feather-weight title, who recently beat ex-Samman Watson, the British champion, has left for Spain, where he will begin a European boxing tour. He will visit Britain, and it is possible that Chocolate will meet Watson in a return match in London. Jack (Kid) Berg has also been mentioned as a possible opponent of Chocolate—British United Press.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BRADMAN AND JACKSON

1930 Oval Game Recalled

Fast leg-theory bowling was born in the Test match at Kensington Oval in August, 1930, unknown to anybody but myself. A spot of rain had fallen. The ball was "popping." My great friend, the late Archie Jackson, stood up to me, getting pinked once or twice in the process, but he never flinched. With Bradman it was different. It was because of that difference that I determined then and there that if I was again honoured with an invitation to go to Australia I would not forget that difference. —Harold Larwood.

BASEBALL CHAMPIONS TRIUMPH

There was some good pitching witnessed in the next inning.

Storie had the Chinese eating out of his hands, and Ed. Chang with wide curves had the sailors hitting the air.

The sailors tied the count in the fifth, Ross accounting for the run. Ross hit safely after two were out. On a fielder's choice he romped to third and scored when Matty Chang lost sight of a low ball.

The Southerners again took the lead in the sixth. Ed. Chang hit beautifully, stole second, and scored when H. Young hit the ball into deep left field for a two-bagger.

Shelly, pitching for the sailors, in relief of Storie, then found his old form and the next two batters were sent to the bench by the strikeout route.

B. Chang, who relieved Ed. Chang, showed fine form. He held the sailors in check throughout the remainder of the game. Only six men came to the plate.

Champions Clinch Game.

The Chinese tallied twice in the seventh inning to clinch the game after two outs. Matty Chang was given a life by an error by Shelly. He stole second, and third. B. Chang was given a base on balls, and T. Chan was also given a base on balls, but on the last pitch Donovan let the ball hit the backstop and both runners scored. The sailors failed in their attempt to equal the count in the seventh.

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more.

Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.

So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

The CALL of the OPEN ROAD

SOUNDPROOF MOTOR CAR

Rolls-Royce And Hooper Model.

A motor-car in which comfort and elegance have been specially studied will shortly be sent from London to its new owner in Konyu, who is responsible for some of the body and the equipment. The body is stated to be, by a combination of rubber floors and a felt-lined roof, absolutely soundproof, and even the purr of the engine cannot be heard by the occupants at any time. It is a Rolls-Royce four-door saloon, and the insulating of the roof with 1½ in. felt keeps out the tropical sunshine.

The interior fittings are in stainless steel and ivory, while the woodwork is in figured walnut cross veneer, and the instrument board in ebony. Special provision for the dusty climate is made by finishing the whole of the interior in smooth leather. In a minute the car can be transformed into a comfortable sleeping compartment. By a simple movement the back squab of the rear seat can be folded down and the cushion moved forward, forming, with the luggage compartment, which becomes available when the back of the seat is removed, a comfortable couch for two persons. A hinged table is fitted to the back of the front seats, and the rear quarters of the car have two cupboards fitted with bottles, glasses, teacups, and so forth. Three additional lock-up cupboards are provided in the driving compartment, while a special container for a store of oil on tour has been arranged under the back floor.

Heavily Sprung.

The body, a short four-door saloon by Hooper, is fitted on a long 12ft. 6 in. chassis and provides a rare combination—ample room for four people to tour quite comfortably, but space in a long "tail" for four large suitcases. For the rough roads to be met in Africa special heavy springs have been provided. The two spare wheels, to provide maximum adhesion to the driving wheels, are carried at the back, while a special rear bumper has been evolved with hinged centre-piece allowing the spare wheels to be removed. All four windows can be lowered to the full extent, while the wind-screen can be hinged up to a horizontal position and is held by specially designed side struts. The system of mud-guarding gives ample room for tire change and the front wings are made to provide, without sacrificing appearance, complete cover from mud-splashes.

EMIR BUYS BRITISH MOTOR-CARS.

Visit To Morris Works

The Emir of Katsina and his suite visited the Morris motor-car works at Oxford recently and saw the system of mass production there. After seeing the assembly of motor-cars from bare chassis frames to finished and fully tested products, the Emir placed an order for a saloon car for his personal use and for two 30cwt. commercial vehicles.

Subsequently, on a piece of waste land adjoining the factory, the Emir saw demonstrations of how a Morris commercial six-wheeled saloon car and one of their new six-cylinder 3-ton trucks could negotiate land practically impassable to the ordinary motor.

The Emir was received by Sir William Morris and other members of the company's executive.

BRITISH MOTORISTS ARE CONSIDERATE

The president of the American Automobile Touring Alliance, Mr. Standish L. Mitchell, who is also secretary of the A.C. of Southern California, which is the second largest motoring organization in the world, spoke to 800 members of the staff of the Automobile Association of Britain recently.

He stated that, in his opinion, British motorists are more considerate for each other than Americans, and that so far as noise is concerned the position in Britain is better than anywhere else in the world.

DANGEROUS AND SLOW

Pottering Motorists Cause Difficulties.

The scaremongers all aver that road perils are due to excessive speed. "Mmm, p'raps! I was out along the Eastbourne road the other week-end (writes 'Ixion' in 'The Motor Cycle'), and, contrary to the contentions of 'Constant Reader' 'et Cie,' most of the perils I witnessed or encountered were the direct result of 'too much slowness.'"

There is a patch near Horsebridge, locally known as the Dickens, adjacent to Horatio Bottomley's famous residence, where the road is still (though widening has started) barely equal to two streams of traffic. It was a highly perilous passage on this particular Sunday. About one car in each fifty was antediluvian, full up with pa in a bowler hat, stout ma, several olive-branches, tattered celluloid side-screens, sagging hood, and all that.

These antique cars were chuffing proudly along at about 18 to 22 m.p.h. The oncoming stream made it exceedingly difficult to get past them; and on the tail of each such car fumed and fretted a string of about forty-nine modern vehicles, anxious to maintain the modern traffic-stream speed of round about 35 m.p.h. In fact, the forty-nine got so impatient that sooner or later somebody took a chance to nip through without proper clearance between the ancient car and the oncoming stream. It made me pine for those American boulevards, where you get fined unless you keep up a steady thirty-five. I felt, of course, an enormous sympathy with bowler-hatted pa and his family; but when the papers say that speed is the real enemy and that, in particular, we motor cyclists ride too fast I feel urged to point out that, in week-end traffic at least, most of the peril is created by folk who drive too slowly.

ACROSS AFRICA IN BABY CAR

Home After 8,000-Mile Trip.

London.

After travelling all the land journey—8,000 miles—from East Africa in a baby two-seater, a young English coffee planter arrived at his home at Beaconsfield, Buckinghamshire, recently.

He is Mr. Alan Cooper, and he left Nairobi, with a friend named Walsh, in the small car, a Morris, on February 16.

Although the journey was a hazardous adventure in itself, Mr. Cooper had few breakdowns. "From first to last," he said that night, "the old bus went capitally over the 8,000 miles, and along roads which are among the worst in the world."

"I motored from Nairobi through the Belgian Congo to the West Coast of Africa, and then 800 miles across the Sahara Desert to Tangier, whence I crossed to Gibraltar and then went in the car through Spain and France to Paris. There Mr. Walsh left me, and I proceeded to the coast, landing at Dover."

Motor-Coach Speeds

When No "Caution" Will Be Given

London.

New instructions which have been issued to the police in regard to "speeding" by motor coaches mean, it is understood, that in future, in almost every instance where coaches exceed a speed of 35 miles an hour, the practice of sending cautionary letters to first offenders will be discontinued.

Apart from exceptional cases, summonses will be issued where the speed exceeds this figure. The change is due to the increase in road accidents.

MORRIS MOTORS

Mr. E. H. Blake has been appointed deputy-chairman, and Mr. Leonard P. Lord (late general manager of Wolseley Motors (1927) Ltd.) managing director of Morris Motors Limited.

Maurice Chevalier, The Incomparable Film Star, entrusts his voice to the filter tip

YOU, TOO, will find du Maurier the coolest, cleanest and most satisfying cigarette in the world; the filter tip, by cutting out the bad, emphasises the good.

Although the impurities that exist in tobacco leaf are, of course, removed during manufacture, this is not enough, because it is only on burning the tobacco that the real causes of throat irritation and smoker's cough are developed—the acrid products of combustion. These can only be removed from the smoke itself.

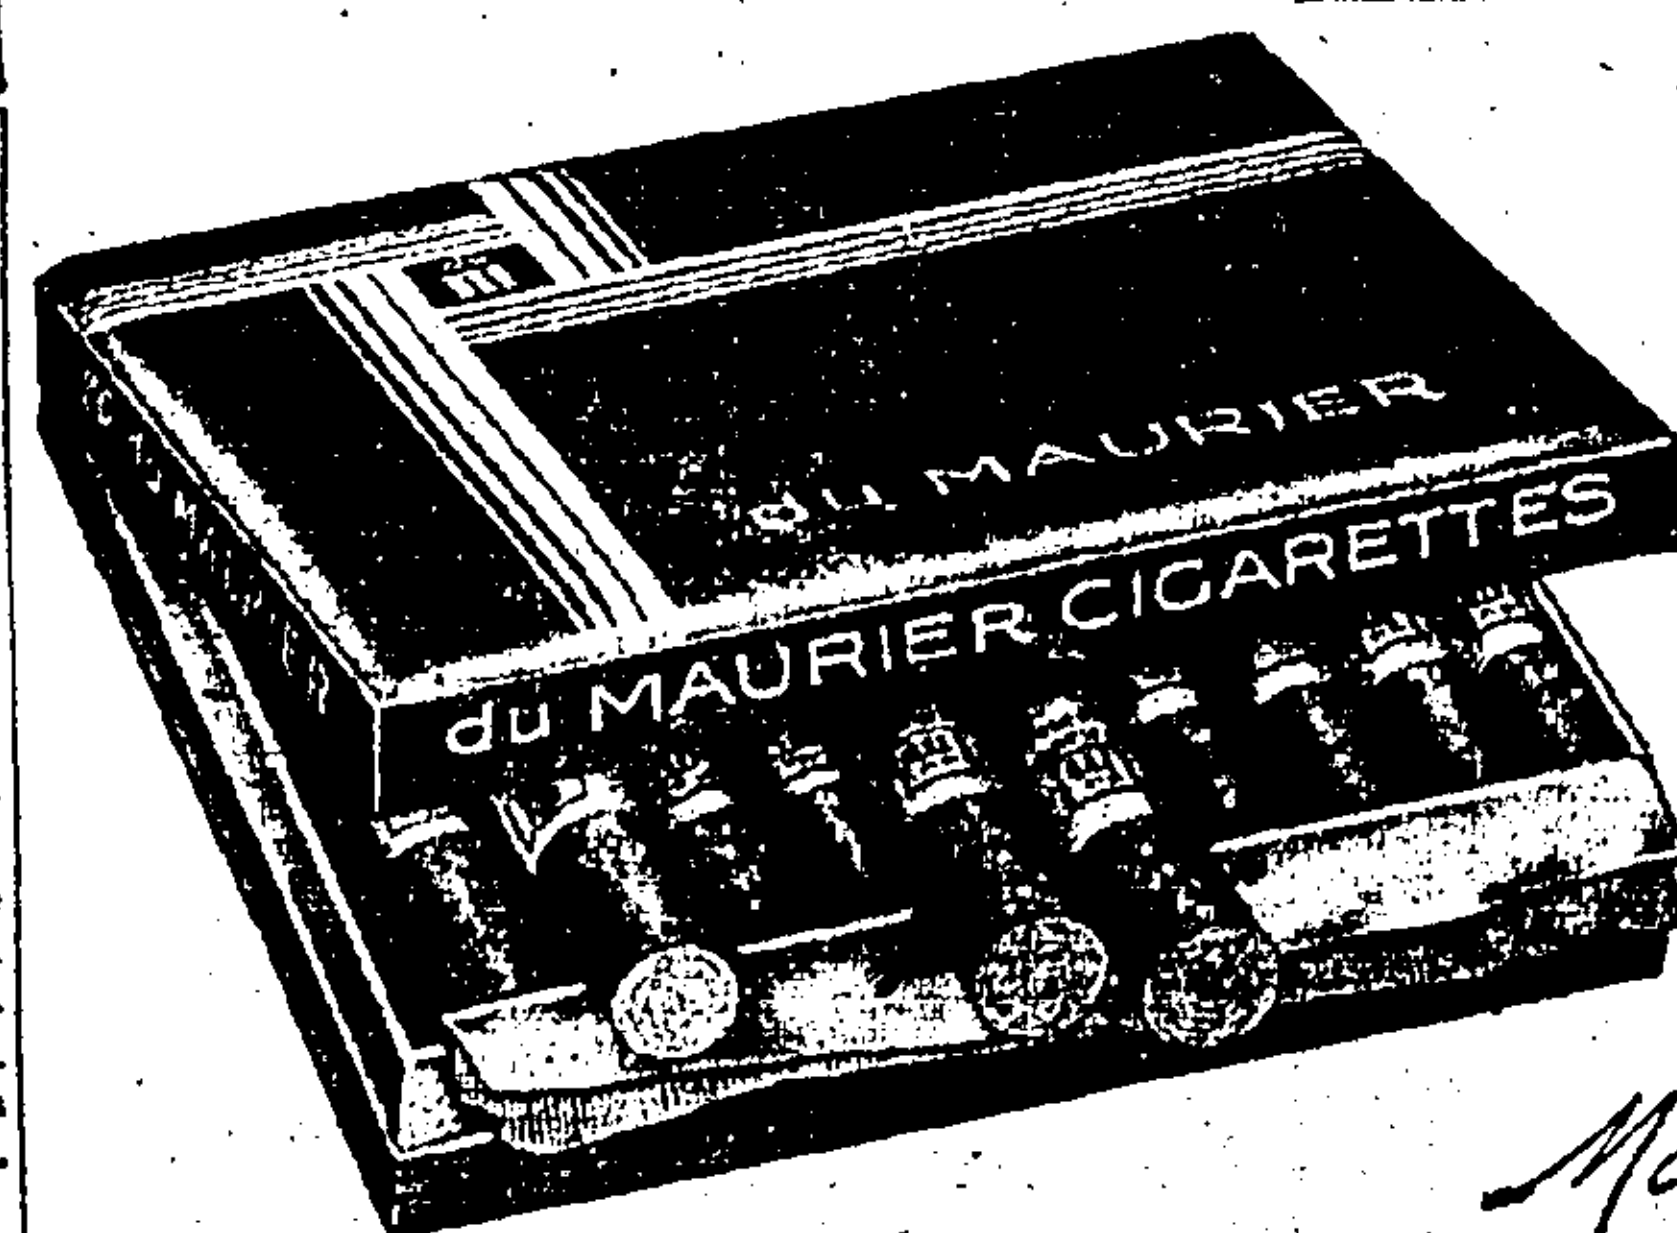

The du Maurier filter tip alone can do this as it contains the one substance known to science able to retain them.

The flavour of the fine Virginia leaf is definitely enhanced—prove it for yourself to-day.

MAURICE CHEVALIER writes:—

"The subtle timbre of a voice conveys the elusive quality of personality. This is true not only of singers, but of all whose voice is a social asset. The excellent du Maurier cigarette, with the clever filter tip, is the most delightful of 'smokes'—quite free from any irritation which might cause hoarseness, or detract from the brilliance and charm of one's voice."

"Tell Me To-Night," the sensational Gaumont-British musical romance starring the famous Polish tenor, Jan Kiepura, opened at the Central yesterday. Supporting the star, is a cast of brilliant British artists which includes Sonnie Hale, Edmund Gwenn, Athene Seyler, Betty Chester, while Magda Schneider charming Continental actress, furnish the romantic interest.

In the story, Ferraro, a noted Italian tenor, has a most business-like young woman as a manager. She bullies him so effectively that on the way to middle Europe to give a series of concerts, he gives her the slip to secure a respite. On the train a most ingratiating young fellow makes his acquaintance and is so pushful that Ferraro accepts the situation when Koretzky assumes the position of his secretary. When they alight at Zern, which in the story is on the lovely lake of Lugano, he resolves to "put one across" the sprightly Koretzky. He leads Pategg, the Mayor of Zern to believe that the secretary is the famous tenor, and he Ferraro is the secretary. Hilarious complications follow in rapid order, and Sonnie Hale, as the crook, makes the most of the many amusing situations.

Jan Kiepura, in addition to his beautiful voice, has an attractive personality which is seen to great advantage in the role of the Italian tenor, Ferraro and he renders many delightful songs throughout the film, besides that haunting melody "Tell Me To-Night," on which the title is founded; the Victor record of which can now be obtained.

Sonnie Hale's work is outstanding. Magda Schneider makes a delightful heroine, while Edmund Gwenn as the robust Mayor, Athene Seyler as the Mayor's wife, and Betty Chester as Kiepura's manageress, all give excellent performances.

$800,000 BUILDING OF 112 FLATS Co-operative Scheme Announced.

OWNERSHIP AFTER 12 YEARS' TENANCY

"Own your own flat" is the slogan of the Perpetual Trust Company which is to commence building operations early next month on what will be the largest block of flats in the Colony.

The Company has acquired the large plot of ground bordering Chatham Road and Carnarvon Road, Kowloon, where it is to raise a 7-storey building containing 112 flats. It is hoped to complete the building within 15 months from the date of starting, at an estimated cost of $800,000.

It is the intention of the Company to offer the flats at an average rental of $130, and to launch a co-operative scheme whereby the tenant will become the owner of his flat within 12 years.

This co-operative scheme is the idea of Mr. A. Castle, Manager of the Perpetual Trust Company.
Mr. Castle, in an interview with a Sunday Herald representative, said that the scheme was receiving very good support and its success was assured.

The scheme, which is now receiving final consideration before an official statement is made, asks for the deposit of $2,500 by each tenant, and an inclusive rental of $130 per month. After the completion of 12 years the flat will become the property of the tenant, who will then only be obliged to pay the usual taxes and extras, amounting to some $15 per month.

Actually the tenant will become a share-holder of the building, and the 112 tenants will be formed into a Company.

Malaguna Mansions.
Malaguna Mansions, as the building is to be styled, covers an area of over 70,000 square feet with a frontage of 305 feet facing Chatham Road.

A grass terrace with a circular motor drive, similar to that in front of the Peninsula Hotel will be built. It is estimated that it will be six times larger than the one at the Hotel.

The building has been designed by Mr. S. L. Wong. It is of a modern design with self-contained flats of 4 and 6 rooms. Two bathrooms, a kitchen, pantry, two servants' quarters and a large verandah completes the flat.

Rising seven storeys high, the building will be provided with eight electric lifts which will run at all hours.

Other building schemes were also being considered by the Company on Chatham Road, and with the completion of the Malaguna Mansions, Mr. Castle remarked that Chatham Road would become one of the finest residential areas in the Colony.

"A Mild Land Boom."
"Kowloon is now experiencing a mild land boom. Quite a number of properties have changed hands during the past three months and land prices are increasing steadily. This year a keen demand is being made for land and this is undoubtedly the best year for land investors since the slump in 1925," said Mr.
Castle.

Mr. Castle also remarked that the Company had refused numerous offers to sell the Malaguna Mansions site, even at a handsome profit.

Formerly Owned by Fr. Noval.
The property has stood vacant for a considerable number of years, being formerly owned by Father Noval of the Dominican Procuration. Until recently it was used as a storage ground by the Hong Kong Engineering and Construction Company, who built garages for their trucks.

LONG TERM LOANS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES DISCOURAGED

Mr. Chamberlain's Appeal To British Financiers

London, Yesterday.
The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in a letter to the Secretary of the London Stock Exchange and to the leading banks and financial houses, states that Britain is not, in his judgment, at present in a position to invest large sums at and he requests those to whom his appeal is addressed, to assist him in discouraging such transactions.—British Wireless Service.

AMERICA'S $550,000,000 LOAN TO CHINA.

Mr. Chow admitted that Mr.
Hu Han-min has often submitted plans to the Southwest concerning national affairs and is particularly angry against the compromise and the big American loan. As to his visit to Canton, Mr. Chow said that Mr. Hu has not yet fixed a date for coming here.

Mr. Chow went on to denounce Chiang Kai-shek for failure to resist the Japanese and refusal to allow others to take up the cudgels, pointing out that Chiang has plotted with the Japanese for a combined drive against the anti-Japanese allied forces under the command of General Feng

COMMUNISTS DRIVE SUCCESSSES.

Reds Routed In South-Western Provinces.

MILITARY PLAN BIG PUSH.

Canton Yesterday.
An important military conference will be held at Tayu on the Kwangtung-Kiangsi borders, when a plan for a drive against the Communists will be consummated.
All officers of the garrison in southern Kiangsi must reach there before June 19.

The meeting will also be attended by the county magistrates of the 11 counties in southern Kiang-si. The object is to make a push further northward into Kiangsi so as to make a clean sweep of the Communists in that province.

About 300 Reds were killed and 400 rifles captured in a recent battle between the Communist rifflers and troops of the Second Independent Brigade in eastern Kiangsi.
Minor engagements took place in the early part of the week between Cantonese forces and the Red hordes in different places in southern Kiangsi, resulting in the defeat of the latter.

A military report from Hai Feng and Lu Feng counties state that the bandits there have been practically wiped out. Several notorious bandit chiefs were killed by the Cantonese forces.

EXPEDITIONARY FORCE TO HELP.

Expeditionary forces from Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Fukien who were obliged to return from Hunan following the signing of the Tangku truce will be placed under the command of General Chen Chi-tang, Commander-in-Chief of the anti-Red forces and will be sent to Kiangsi to suppress the Communists.

Lieut. Gen. Teng Lung-kwang and Brig. Gen. Li Chin-liang, Commander and Executive Officer of the fourth independent division, will shortly return to Canton prior to their expedition to Kiangsi.

The two Kwangsi battalions are now proceeding from northern Kwangtung toward Lungnan, Tingnan and Chienan, important towns in southern Kiangsi.—

MOTOR-CYCLISTS' NEW RECORDS.

Thrilling scenes were witnessed on the Ramsay Hairpin and at Ballig Bridge, the daring riders cornering at terrific speeds.
Three times during the gruelling ride the lap record was broken.

Foreign competitors were completely outclassed by the British riders whose machines, at the end of the race, showed little signs of the terrible strain.

RA.F. DISPLAY AT HENDON

The World's Fastest Military Aircraft.

FEATURES OF PROMINENT EXHIBITS

London, Yesterday.

Among the machines in the Royal Air Force display to be held on June 24, will be two standard types of military aircraft fitted with engines consuming heavy oil which is less inflammable, cheaper and less bulky than petrol. It's advocates believe that the introduction of Diesel engines will mark a revolution in aviation.

One of the machines is fitted with a Rolls Royce water-cooled engine, and is the first Diesel engine to pass the Air Ministry type test involving 50 hours full-throttle running.
The other machine has an air cooled British Phoenix engine, the most powerful of its kind in the world. Although weighing only 980 pounds complete, it produces 380 horse-power.

The Wapitite machine in which this engine is fitted, has climbed to over 16,000 feet and the engine has been run for over 180 hours.

Another prominent exhibit in the display, which, as usual, will afford a striking demonstration of the progress of aviation research, is a short six-engine flying boat weighing 33 tons, the largest military aircraft in the world.

The world's fastest military aircraft will be seen in the modified Hawker Fury aeroplanes, capable of over 260 miles per hour.—British Wireless Service.

ILLINOIS VOTES "WET."

Chicago Votes 14 To 1
For Repeal.

Chicago.

Returns from the election for selecting delegates to the convention which will pass on prohibition repeal showed that Illinois was running wet by about 4 to 1.

Returns from Chicago showed a ratio as high as 14 to 1.

Illinois thus joined the ranks of states which already have indicated a desire for repeal of the 18th amendment, including Michigan, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Rhode Island,
New York, New Jersey and Nevada.

Illinois makes the eight state.
A total of 36 must ratify the repeal amendment to make it effective.
No state has yet rejected the proposal for repeal, which is endorsed the democratic administration.

U.S. JUDGE FINALLY REACHES SENATE.

Former Mayor And Judge.

Lincoln, Neb.

Judge W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, Neb., to-day was appointed to the United States Senate by Governor Charles W. Bryan, to fill the seat left vacant by the death
last March of Senator Robert B.
Howell.

Senator Thompson has been a delegate to several Democratic national conventions and was twice a Democratic national committeeman.

He was mayor of Grand Island from 1895 to 1898.

He was appointed as supreme court judge in 1924 and re-elected for a six-year term in 1926.
